CHILLICOTHE, LIVINGSTON CO., MISSOURI, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1883.

NUMBER 15.

CURRENT TOPICS.

JOHN KELLEY is a millionaire.

NORTH CAROLINA has sixty-four cotton factories.

They are still eating watermelons at Meigsport, Fla.

The travel to Florida is heavy for this time of year.

Mr. TUNNE is president of the Boston Fat Men's Club.

The word "tousler" occasions much amusement in France.

PARISANS are eating mushrooms baked in bread crumbs.

CALIFORNIA has only one church to every thousand inhabitants.

There are about twenty thousand vessels in the British register.

The big Mormon grocery in Salt Lake is called "The Lord's Store."

HENRY WATSON says that Tom Ochiltree is "half horse and half alligator."

A CONFECTIONER says that about 30 per cent of the candy sold is white earth.

GAMBERTA's son is to be educated at the Sandhurst Military School in England.

The late Governor Washburn, of Wisconsin, left each of his children a round million.

THE Hon. George Bancroft will give to the Iowa town named for him $4,000 worth of books for a public library.

ROBERT BROWNING has left Venice to visit Athens and thus realize a dream of his youth. His son seeks to his sculptor's studio in Paris.

It has been estimated by those best able to judge of such matters that there are over 1,000,000 cigars smoked daily in New York city.

JUDGE HOOVER, who was once chief justice of Arizona, is now chief waiter in a restaurant in southern California. Judge Satterthwaite, also of Arizona, is now doing tinkering jobs for a living.

MR. BELL, the new supervisor of architecture at Washington, thinks the capitol building has been built to on all sides until it is all out of proportion.

"It looks like a very big hat on a small man."

A NEW HAMPSHIRE paper says that a Manchester young woman, a weaver in one of the mills, has started for Minneapolis, Minn., to look over a widower who wants to marry her. He pays her expenses out, and if she doesn't like the looks of things he is to pay her expenses back.

In the neighborhood of Agra, in India, sixty-five children from a few months to four years old, are stated to have been carried off by wolves during the recent hot weather and the rains.

The ravines bordering on the Jannu and Chumbul rivers are infested by these animals, which are apparently becoming more and more daring every year.

The first stone of the monument to Glinka, the Russian composer, has been laid at Smolensk, when the bishop preached a sermon, and headed the religious procession. A great number of crowns were placed on the side of the monument. Glinka's sister, Mme. Schestakoff, was present, and a former servant of Glinka's was among the musicians.

A LADY at a Chicago hotel, whose unruly children annoy everybody in the house, the other day said to a noted teacher sitting near her at the table: "Professor, do you believe in the use of the rod in the management of children?" The professor glared at her and replied: "Sometimes, madame, but not when the children are as unruly as yours."

MILAN and Turin are distinguished by their excellent schools, with gymnastics attached, for deformed children. The exercises require careful adjustment to the different cases; but the system is found very successful. In one school, out of 252 patients received during the year, 44 were entirely cured, 15 left partially cured, and most of the remainder were reported as being in a fair way to be cured.

M. DE BLOWITZ has been "interviewing" that clever representative of royalty, the queen of Roumania. He addressed her in French. She, in feigned surprise, asked him if he were a Frenchman. "No, your Majesty; I am a German Bohemian." "Are you ashamed of your own language, then?" Whereat, says the chronicler—and this, it must be confessed, most difficult to believe—M. de Bioitz blushed!

FRANCOISE SARCOT, "the great bear of Paris journalism," is a large, elderly man, with an enormous chest, a wild, thick, iron-gray beard, and a ferocious glare in his eyes that his gold spectacles cannot conceal. His criticisms are mercilessly severe, and it is related that once he was fined for speaking too harshly of a priest. That evening his lecture was a terribly sarcastic review of some poor author, on whom he wreaked full vengeance for the day's annoyance. But as the lecture drew to an end his consciences—for he has one—troubled him, and he abruptly remarked: "My dear hearers, I am laboring under the effects of a very great annoyance, and I am afraid I have been too severe, even unjust, toward the author and the book I have been talking to you about."

KATIE'S KISSES.

To my Katie I said, "It's a taste Of thin lips that I'd have, an' I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

But she answered an' told me, wid eyes That she said she could never, for days, An' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"Just as they are, I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

"I'd have 'em belong to me, an' I'd have 'em belong to me."

MARY'S TROUBLES.

Mary is a washerwoman. She dearly loves "an' arly wark," and she always comes when the dew is on the grass. She has the morning concert of the birds, and the cherry interchange of greetings between the hostess and the guest.

She stops on her way at my rosebed and ruthlessly plucks my roses. She has the morning concert of the birds, and the cherry interchange of greetings between the hostess and the guest.
